O'BRIEN'S WHEREABOUTS.

Mr. Raffalwitch, the brother-in-law of Mr. William O'Briet, has been interviewed by a Dalziel reporter, and says he has no information of his or Mr. Dillon's whereabouts. It is believed, however, he knows more than he cares to divulge at the present moment.

It is rumored in Rome to-night that it is the intention of Mr. Dillon and Mr. O'Brien to visit the Holy City during the stay of Bishop O'Dwyer, of Limerick, in order to endeavor to obtain an interview with the Pope.

A DOMESTIC TRAGEDY,

Which Very Properly has Horrified the People of Bordeaux.
Special to The Times by Dunlap Cable Co.]
BORDEAUX, Oct. 14.—The city is horrified to-day by a domestic tragedy, induced by one of the most revolting acts imaginable, which recalls the story of Count Cence and his unfortunate daughter Beatrice. A positiceman named Pourqueret has for a long time persecuted his daughter of eighteen with the most infamous proposals. In offer order to spare her mother's feelings, the girl kept her trouble a secret, and tried in every way to avoid going into her father's girl kept her trouble a secret, and tried in every way to avoid going into her father's morning, while her mother found the place where she worked.
